The primary approach: Linking research, studies and generation of material

- The project includes several PhD students and postdocs who will conduct the research on on-line education.
- Each PhD student and postdoc in this project will assist with or teach one course per year, which includes setting up tutorials with quizzes.

Adding faculty

Faculty around the world, working in the target fields, will be contacted for cooperating to insert content and use the system.

BSc in mathematics

A list of tutorials will be set up to correspond to content required for a BSc degree in mathematics.

Courses in fishery science

Tutorials corresponding to several courses in fishery science have already been set up.

MSc in applied statistics

A list of tutorials will be set up to correspond to content required for a course-based masters degree in applied statistics.
